

THE Bloomfield Record

A WEEKLY JOURNAL.
S. MORRIS HULIN, Proprietor.
Office 29 Broad Street.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 15, 1897.

Bloomfield's Candidate for Register.

There are Republican candidates for the County office of Register from nearly every City, Ward and Township, and not the least conspicuous among them is the name of the Board of Freeholders, who have from Bloomfield, who have from Bloomfield.

Looking the field completely over, without disparagement of the "claims" upon the Republican party of any other gentleman or locality, who is there and that city or town is there, entitled to secure the Register ship than Bloomfield in the person of Mr. McGowan?

In regard to locality, it is many long years since a county office came to Bloomfield. The Oranges have had the Sheriff, the Surrogate, and the Register, and Belleville the Surrogate, all of these offices with in the past eight or nine years. The large territory comprising the original Township of Bloomfield, now Bloomfield, Glen Ridge and Montclair, has not had a county office since, by some division of forces in the City of Newark, the office of County Clerk came to J. Banks Peck of Bloomfield, and that was some twenty or more years ago.

Mr. McGowan has been in politics constantly since that time, and during all this time he has been quietly and unobtrusively fitting himself for some recognition of this kind without putting forward his claims on the party. In all these years, as a politician and as a member of the County Board what has Mr. McGowan been doing? He has been making money, not for himself but for others. Always strictly loyal to his party, he has been in a position to aid the ambitions of others, and has freely given his aid and influence for the best man. Far better still, he has been in position where he could save the taxpayers of the County of Essex many thousands of dollars by his integrity and devotion to principle at all times and under all circumstances, and this he has done. The man who pursues a straight course for the public good in this time of crooked politics and deals with the money deserves substantial recognition. We understand that Mr. McGowan is doing no work to secure this nomination of Register, but he has appreciation of friends in all parts of the County who are working, and right now is the opportunity for the Republicans of Bloomfield and Glen Ridge to see that solid delegations go to the County Convention next Wednesday, presenting Director McGowan as their choice for Register.

With such united determination, with honesty of purpose and freedom from entangling alliances, the moral effect upon the Convention would go far toward securing the nomination of a candidate outside of the City of Newark for one of the two big offices. Without untold township action, the politicians of the City of Newark will secure the nomination of both County Clerk and Register, and the Townships will be left out—as usual!

The Henry George Campaign.
In the great quadrangular battle for the Mayoralty of the Greater New York, the Independent Democratic position of Henry George awakens not only metropolitan but national, and even international interest. The two great parties that have confronted each other for a generation past have, in this local combat, under the expressive names of Crookism and Platism, locked horns in the arena of American politics for final mastery. The issue between them is Bossism, or if you prefer a softer word—Regularity, party regularity, under which American citizens are given liberty of choice between wearing the collar of Croker or submitting themselves to the yoke of Mr. Platt.

It is against Democratic Regularity and against Republican Orthodoxy, either of which means the wrecking of a nation, that both Seth Low and Henry George are arrayed. And they are both for and against each other. The situation is set forth in these words by Mr. George:

"I told the people when they came and asked me to be their candidate that I would not even discuss the matter until after Tammany Hall held its convention. I am a Democrat, and had no desire to disrupt the Democratic party so long as its vital principles were adhered to."

"My fight is against bossism in all its phases, and especially in its basest phase as represented by Richard Croker. I saw Croker for the first time in my life to day. He is a strange sort of looking man. Now, this man has come over here from an English race track. He has left his horses and hounds for the nonce in order to handle the people of New York like a lot of cattle. He calls himself an American citizen, but I fail to see how he can be regarded as such. He has been living in England, spending the money he made here as a boss, and has, to all intents and purposes, been a British subject. When he sees a chance to recoup his fortune, he comes over here again and once more takes his old position as the leader of Tammany."

"I propose to fight Croker and his slaves. I propose to fight for the people and their rights. I propose to wage war on bossism in all its hateful forms and phases. Croker is but a terribly bad—but he is no worse than Platt. They are equally offensive to all lovers of freedom, and what applies to one will fit the other."

"So far as I am concerned I would not at all be sorry to see Seth Low elected. He at least to a certain extent is waging war on the forces that I am seeking to destroy. The Citizens' Union movement is a movement in the right direction, but it is not exhaustive. It does not deal a death-blow to bossism. It is only a balm to alleviate the pain. It does not heal the wound. The principles I advocate go to the heart of the evil. If the platform on which I am running was ever put into effect it would put an end to bossism forever."

"The machines are now doing all in their power to prevent the nomination of independent candidates. They are simply outwitting the Australian ballot. They are prostituting a glorious measure to their own illegitimate ends. But I am in the fight to fight and stay. We have secured the best legal advice and will give them battle in the court or on the platform. I am responsible only for myself. The county ticket was chosen from the Citizens' Union and the Brooklyn Democracy. The citizens have declared against the tyranny of Platism. Therefore, to that extent they are in sympathy with us. The Brooklyn Democrats under McLaughlin are against Tammany to the extent that their leaders do not want to be swallowed up by the Croker element."

Township Matters.
The Township Committee held a special meeting on Monday night to consider the case of Policemen James Foster and John G. Welen, charged with having attempted to defeat the ends of justice by sending a telegraph message to Philip Andrew, Jr., a fugitive from justice at Keyport, N. J. The room was crowded to the doors.

The policemen were represented by Frederick H. Pilch, while Francis Swazey represented the town. De Witt Clark, an operator of the Western Union Telegraph Company at the Glenwood Avenue station, from which the dispatch was sent, declined to answer questions, and said that he was "tender to take the consequences."

Thomas Manning, employed at Kreuger's Hotel at Watessing, was the next witness, who testified that the message was given to him by Philip Andrew, Sr., and that he gave it to Foster. The message was "Go to Philadelphia; they are after you."

Officer Foster was next called. He said he did not know the circumstances which caused young Andrew to leave town, and that he took charge of the dispatch as a friend for Mr. Manning. Foster also stated that he had not spoken to the elder Andrew in four years, and that he was on his vacation.

Officer Welen was the next witness. He said that he sent the telegram, but knew nothing of a warrant. However, after he had left the telegraph office, it dawned upon him that the message was not strictly proper, that he was a special officer, that this occurred on Monday when he was not on duty.

Fred H. Pilch summed up for the accused officers. Lawyer Swazey said it was an easy matter to deny actual knowledge and thus obstruct justice. If done in ignorance they were not fit men to have on the Bloomfield Police force. A boy fourteen years would know better than that.

The Committee held an executive session of which all the members voted to dismiss the accused officers, except Frank Foster who was excused from voting.

County Contracts.
A wide divergence in estimates marked the competition for the county bridge contracts when the bids were opened by the bridge committee of the Board of Freeholders on Monday afternoon. For the Old Bloomfield Road structure James B. Mc was the lowest bidder at $974. The next lowest was a bid of $1350, and the proposals ran from thence up to $2200.

"Before any of these contracts are awarded," said Director Thomas McGowan, "I would like to ask the Engineer if there is not some way in which the county can be fully protected after we award the contract. We have had experience of men coming forward, after they had requested their figures, and telling us that they cannot do the work. Such a case came before us quite recently, and I believe we should put a stop to the practice."

"You have certified checks for five per cent of the amount of the contracts," suggested Mr. Owen.

"But the certified checks are only for small amounts," returned Director McGowan, "and bidders might be willing to forfeit the checks rather than lose larger amounts of money."

Mr. Owen then suggested that the successful bidders be notified to give bonds in half the amount of their proposals by Thursday afternoon, and this course will be followed, and the certified checks will be returned to the unsuccessful bidders.

C. E. Society, Baptist Church.
The Young People's Society Christian Endeavor of the Baptist Church held its annual meeting in the church parlors Tuesday night. On Sunday morning next Rev. C. A. Cook will preach to the young people and in the evening there will be an echo meeting of the convention held in Paterson. On Tuesday next the society will celebrate its ninth anniversary, when Luther R. Dyott, president of the Essex County Union, will deliver an address. The society elected these officers: President, Harry L. Osborne; vice-president, Miss Juliet G. Maxwell; treasurer, Miss Cora L. Kimball; recording secretary, Miss Nellie D. Maxwell; corresponding secretary, Miss M. Lizzie Kasselack. Chairman of committees: Lookout, Herbert E. Clark; Prayer-meeting, John Schneider, Jr.; Social, Miss Minnie W. Smith; Music, Miss Clara F. Lind; Flower, Miss Anna M. Stanley; Sunday School, Mrs. G. B. S. Meade; Missionary, Geo. A. Thompson; Good Literature, Miss Anna R. Calumns.

Republican Primaries.
The Republican Primaries for the election of delegates to the County Convention will be held in Music Hall, Orange, next Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock, will be held next Monday from 2 to 9 P. M. in the following places:

Bloomfield—1st Ward, 1st District, First Ward Republican Club, two delegates; 1st Ward, 2d District, Orchard Street, corner Monticourt Street, two delegates; 2d Ward, 1st District, Second Ward Republican Club rooms, three delegates; 3d Ward, 1st District, Lincoln Republican Club, one delegate; 3d Ward, 2d District, Active House, No. 36 Willow Street, two delegates.

Glen Ridge Borough—Firehouse on Herman Street, two delegates; Glen Ridge, two delegates.

A member of the County Committee for the term of two years will also be elected from each election district in the township and borough.

There appears to be no opposition to the re-election to the County Committee of George W. Heath of the First Ward and George Peterson of the Third Ward. In the Second Ward Tunis Garrahan of Brookdale was appointed to fill the unexpired term of William Krenrich, resigned. He is now a candidate for the full term.

Friends of T. E. Hayes have requested him to allow his name to be used at the primary next Monday night as a candidate for member of the County Committee.

The indications are that the primaries will be largely attended.

Board of Health.
A meeting of the Board of Health was held last night. Health Inspector Gilbert reported that all notices sent out for house sewer connections had been complied with. Inspector Gilbert was of the opinion that the overflow of Second River was caused by a filling of mud where the Morris Canal crosses Second River. He will have a conference with Superintendent Powers of the Canal Co. to remedy this evil.

Counsel Halpin was instructed to begin legal proceedings against Plumber Tward, of Arlington, for violation of the plumbing code and doing work without a license. Counsel was also instructed to bring suit against Wm. Hawkins, estate of Wesley B. Corby, B. E. Ballantine and Joseph Pupphole, for amount due for cleaning closets, which was done by order of the Board.

The officials of the Morris Canal have complained to the Township Engineer about the large quantity of water and dirt that is washed in the canal during heavy rain storms. The canal company are compelled to employ a large force of men to clean out the mud each year at Belleville Ave., Maple and Liberty Sts. About $70,000 has been collected in payment of taxes by Collector Hardcastle to date.

McCurdy's FALL OPENING
The Leaders in the Lowest Prices Quoted on Furniture and Bedding.

Reasons Why We Quote the Lowest Prices:
BECAUSE small profits satisfy us.
BECAUSE we buy for cash; we sell for cash, we give no credit.
BECAUSE we manufacture every pillow and mattress we sell, buying the materials in large quantities, cash lots and cargoes, at the lowest prices and each will pay them.
BECAUSE we give no credit we incur no bad debts and do not have to cover losses made this way, nor to bear expense of a large office force for credit accounts by charging high prices.
Lastly and by no means least, BECAUSE all our buying is done by the senior member of our firm, who is beyond buying goods except upon their merits. No agents' or manufacturers' relations or commissions have any weight with him; and we are not dependent upon married buyers.

Mr. White will receive applications for a dancing class, for the season at Central Hall, next Monday afternoon at 3.30 o'clock. On Friday, Oct. 20th, Mr. Hartung will organize a dancing class in Central Hall. Also an afternoon class for children.

A series of five assembly dances will be given in Central Hall during the season. The first will be held on Friday, Nov. 20th; the second on New Year's Eve. The date of the three others will be announced later.

A civil service examination for the grades of clerk and carriers in the Bloomfield Post Office will be held on Saturday, Dec. 4th. Applications must be in the hands of the secretary, Arthur S. Kimball, before the close of business on Saturday, Nov. 13th.

The work on the new County bridge, over the Morris Canal, at Beach Street, is moving along slowly. People note the contrast with the work of the bridge builders on the Greenwood Lake Railroad, who appear to do more work in a week than the contractors for the County accomplish in a month.

A regular meeting of the Township Committee will be held next Monday night. The ordinance will be passed, changing the grade of the sidewalk on the south side of Belleville Avenue at Oak Street. It is said the vacancies of the police force will be filled at the time.

The Board of Registry and Election held a meeting on Tuesday, to review the registry list. Only a few names were added. The total number registered is as follows: First Ward, First District, 283; First Ward, Second District, 251; Second Ward, 365; Third Ward, First District, 282; Third Ward, Second District, 275; total, 1856. Glen Ridge Registry, 386.

Mr. Charles Buckett of Deane St. opened the bee hive which his wife brought from Deane Street last June found that the bees had been kept during their old time repatriation, having changed a change of site and found a new home. The bees had collected and than forty pounds of honey, which was taken from the hive last Saturday, and the neighbors agreed that the clover fields of Chestnut Hill yield more than even than meadows this year.
